Draw a place value chart with two rows and four columns. Label each column with a place value. The binary system is a base 2 system, so instead of the ones, tens, hundreds, and thousands place like we use in the decimal (base 10) system, binary has the ones, twos, fours, and eights place. The ones place is the far right column of your chart, and the eights place is the far left column.

Hi, I read this post around a week ago. I've been consumed by nagatuve thoughts and as you say prisoner of my own mind. I often spend so much time in my own head, the thoughts become so over whelming they make me question my whole life and sometimes I act on the emotion and make irrational decisions, but my 10 year relationship to the father of my children suffers the most.
